CASE STUDY

Smarteq and Swisscom Hospitality Partner to Deliver the Next Generation of Hotel Technology Solutions in Russia

Swisscom Hospitality Services and Smarteq have entered a commercial partnership to serve Russia's hotel industry through a suite of integrated Information and Communication Technology (ICT) solutions.

Now acting as Swisscom's exclusive channel partner for the Russian market, Smarteq sells, installs and supports Swisscom's ConnectedHotel TV, IPTV, high-speed Internet access, Voice over IP, smart room controls and other leading guest technologies.

"As the market is transforming itself, Russian hoteliers are becoming very keenly interested in new IP technologies and how they can keep up with modern user trends," says Nikolay Beloshitsky, General Manager at Smarteq. "Through our strong local presence we will be able to offer the full scope of works, starting from project management up to deployment and after-sales services.

"Many international operators are establishing their market presence, all at the same time, so our focus is to provide resources to ensure that every project throughout Russia is given the necessary attention and priority, be it a newbuild or a refurbishment," he adds.

Swisscom Hospitality offers a suite of IP convergent guest applications designed for service areas such as TV and in-room entertainment, mobile connectivity, voice services, room environmental controls and hotel business centres and conferences. Acting through Smarteq, Swisscom Hospitality will advise hoteliers on how they can introduce next-generation, 'smart' hotel networks, whereby individual applications do not sit in mutually exclusive technology silos but rather converge on one common IT infrastructure, reducing capital and operational expenditure while improving guest services.

"I am truly excited about this partnership with Smarteq," comments Dick de Pater, Head of Indirect Sales for Swisscom Hospitality Services. "At this critical moment, the Russian market can only benefit from our best-of-breed technologies which have matured and proven their value many times over elsewhere. By teaming up with a strong local hospitality technology supplier, we will service the Russian hotel industry in the most effective way, assure successful local delivery on framework agreements and contribute to a consistent service delivery for our global chain clients in this key growth market."
